INDUSTRIAL VISIT

An industrial visit was organized to Museum Tripunithara palace at Ernakulum for students of the Department of Functional English on 24 February 2023, Friday.. It was a one day excursion, whereby the students were introduced to visit the Museum to show them the cultural importance of that archaeological palace and museum The museum displays 14 categories of exhibits, including Crown and ornaments of the royal family. And also they displayed the paintings, sculptures in stone and marble, weapons, inscriptions, and coins. The major share of attractions in the museum are contributed by the Cochin royal family with some exhibits from the Paliam Devaswom and the department of Archaeology. The museum collection includes a gold crown embedded with precious stones and many valuable coins, ornaments, majestic beds, and samples of epigraphy. The famous Malayalam movie Manichitrathazhu was shot here. Hill Palace was built in 1865 by the Maharaja of Cochin and is now the largest archaeological museum in Kerala.

Initially it started off as a royal office, court building and offices of royal secretaries and nobles of the court, and soon an increasing number of structures were added to the main structure for various purposes. Soon, an imperial residence building was also constructed for the residence of the king and his immediate family, although other members of the Cochin royal family had their own allocated bungalows and official residences. The history about the royal family and their cultural importance was explained to students by the members of Meuseum.

The palace was handed over to the government of Kerala by the Cochin royal family, and in 1980 the palace was taken over by the Department of Archaeology and later converted into a museum. It was opened to the public in 1986. The museum and its campus are popular shooting locations for the Malayalam film industry. The Meuseum helped the Students to understood about different cultural artefacts.
